the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased from 10.5 million to 13.5 million, and the number of people aged 75 and over has increased from 4.5 million to 6.5 million (Office for National Statistics 2000). The number of people aged 65 and over is projected to increase to 16.5 million by 2020, and the number of people aged 75 and over to 8.5 million (Office for National Statistics 2000).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of older people in the UK. The Department of Health (2000) has published a strategy for older people, which sets out the government's commitment to improve the lives of older people. The strategy is based on three main principles: (1) to ensure that older people have the opportunity to live independently and actively; (2) to ensure that older people have access to the services and support they need; and (3) to ensure that older people are treated with respect and dignity. The strategy is being implemented through a range of measures, including: (1) improving the quality of care in residential care homes; (2) increasing the number of care workers; (3) improving the training of care workers; (4) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in dementia care; (5) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in mental health care; (6) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in physical health care; (7) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in social care; (8) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in end-of-life care; (9) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in palliative care; (10) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in bereavement care.

The Department of Health (2000) has also published a strategy for mental health care, which sets out the government's commitment to improve the lives of people with mental health problems. The strategy is based on three main principles: (1) to ensure that people with mental health problems have the opportunity to live independently and actively; (2) to ensure that people with mental health problems have access to the services and support they need; and (3) to ensure that people with mental health problems are treated with respect and dignity. The strategy is being implemented through a range of measures, including: (1) improving the quality of care in residential care homes; (2) increasing the number of care workers; (3) improving the training of care workers; (4) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in dementia care; (5) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in mental health care; (6) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in physical health care; (7) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in social care; (8) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in end-of-life care; (9) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in palliative care; (10) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in bereavement care.

The Department of Health (2000) has also published a strategy for physical health care, which sets out the government's commitment to improve the lives of people with physical health problems. The strategy is based on three main principles: (1) to ensure that people with physical health problems have the opportunity to live independently and actively; (2) to ensure that people with physical health problems have access to the services and support they need; and (3) to ensure that people with physical health problems are treated with respect and dignity. The strategy is being implemented through a range of measures, including: (1) improving the quality of care in residential care homes; (2) increasing the number of care workers; (3) improving the training of care workers; (4) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in dementia care; (5) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in mental health care; (6) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in physical health care; (7) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in social care; (8) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in end-of-life care; (9) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in palliative care; (10) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in bereavement care.

The Department of Health (2000) has also published a strategy for social care, which sets out the government's commitment to improve the lives of people with social care needs. The strategy is based on three main principles: (1) to ensure that people with social care needs have the opportunity to live independently and actively; (2) to ensure that people with social care needs have access to the services and support they need; and (3) to ensure that people with social care needs are treated with respect and dignity. The strategy is being implemented through a range of measures, including: (1) improving the quality of care in residential care homes; (2) increasing the number of care workers; (3) improving the training of care workers; (4) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in dementia care; (5) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in mental health care; (6) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in physical health care; (7) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in social care; (8) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in end-of-life care; (9) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in palliative care; (10) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in bereavement care.

The Department of Health (2000) has also published a strategy for end-of-life care, which sets out the government's commitment to improve the lives of people with end-of-life care needs. The strategy is based on three main principles: (1) to ensure that people with end-of-life care needs have the opportunity to live independently and actively; (2) to ensure that people with end-of-life care needs have access to the services and support they need; and (3) to ensure that people with end-of-life care needs are treated with respect and dignity. The strategy is being implemented through a range of measures, including: (1) improving the quality of care in residential care homes; (2) increasing the number of care workers; (3) improving the training of care workers; (4) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in dementia care; (5) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in mental health care; (6) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in physical health care; (7) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in social care; (8) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in end-of-life care; (9) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in palliative care; (10) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in bereavement care.

The Department of Health (2000) has also published a strategy for bereavement care, which sets out the government's commitment to improve the lives of people with bereavement care needs. The strategy is based on three main principles: (1) to ensure that people with bereavement care needs have the opportunity to live independently and actively; (2) to ensure that people with bereavement care needs have access to the services and support they need; and (3) to ensure that people with bereavement care needs are treated with respect and dignity. The strategy is being implemented through a range of measures, including: (1) improving the quality of care in residential care homes; (2) increasing the number of care workers; (3) improving the training of care workers; (4) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in dementia care; (5) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in mental health care; (6) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in physical health care; (7) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in social care; (8) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in end-of-life care; (9) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in palliative care; (10) increasing the number of care workers who are trained in bereavement care.

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million, from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1999. The public sector has grown from 10% of the economy to 17% of the economy.

There is a growing emphasis on the need to improve the efficiency of the public sector. This has led to a number of initiatives, including the introduction of competition, the restructuring of public services, and the introduction of performance targets. The aim of these initiatives is to reduce the cost of public services and to improve the quality of the services provided.

One of the main challenges facing the public sector is the need to reduce the cost of public services. This is a difficult task, as public services are often provided at a loss. However, there are a number of ways in which the cost of public services can be reduced. These include the introduction of competition, the restructuring of public services, and the introduction of performance targets.

The introduction of competition is one of the most common ways in which the cost of public services can be reduced. This involves the introduction of private companies into the public sector. These companies are then able to compete with each other for contracts, which helps to reduce the cost of the services provided.

The restructuring of public services is another way in which the cost of public services can be reduced. This involves the merging of public services and the elimination of duplication. This helps to reduce the cost of the services provided and to improve the quality of the services provided.

The introduction of performance targets is a third way in which the cost of public services can be reduced. This involves the setting of targets for the performance of public services. These targets are then used to measure the performance of public services and to identify areas for improvement.

There are a number of other ways in which the cost of public services can be reduced. These include the introduction of new technologies, the restructuring of public services, and the introduction of performance targets. These initiatives are all aimed at reducing the cost of public services and improving the quality of the services provided.

The public sector is a vital part of the economy and it is important that it is able to provide high quality services at a reasonable cost. The initiatives described above are all aimed at achieving this goal and it is hoped that they will be successful in the future.

The public sector is a complex and challenging environment and it is important that it is able to adapt to the changing needs of the economy. The initiatives described above are all aimed at achieving this goal and it is hoped that they will be successful in the future.

EXTRA! EXTRA!

Just as a newspaper gives you a slice of what has been happening over the past 24 hours, yearbook tries to give a snapshot of the past school year. It is a record of the memories made and the friendships that we have created, that have grown, or that we may have forgotten. We all make connections with one another that may not be immediately realized, but they are there; whether they are for the good or the bad. It is who we are and in many ways will help to define who we are becoming. Hopefully, this book will serve its purpose and bring back mostly good memories of what has passed.

What is friendship to you?

Friendship, to me, is loving and caring for someone like family; standing up for one another; having nothing get in the way of our friendship; being trustworthy; someone I can be myself around; and someone I can have fun with.

What do you think of when you hear the words "spelling bee"? You think of a student standing alone on a stage in front of a microphone spelling his or her heart out. Luckily for those with stage fright, that is not the case with spellbowl. During Competition, the student sits at a desk with a proofer and writes down the word spoken. It is almost like taking a spelling test in class.

Spirit Week

This year's spirit week was a big success. The seniors and sophomores were going at it head to head but the seniors ended up taking the win with 65 points after a huge battle during the penny war for the March of Dimes. The sophomores came in second with 50 points, the juniors came in third with 46 points and the freshmen came in last with 40 points. All classes had a great turn out when it came to spirit. We had a lot of people dressing up - even the teachers. Thanks to everyone we had a very spirited week.

Anything Goes Games

First Place: Seniors 10 points

Second Place: Sophomores 08 points

Third Place: Freshmen 06 points

Fourth Place: Juniors 05 points

Getting into the Spirit

Homecoming is a yearly tradition. On the day of the big homecoming football game, people gather along Central Avenue to watch the parade. Spectators come to see the band march, the football players wave, and all the floats made by different grades and organizations from the high school drive by. All the classes in the senior high school worked really hard designing and building the floats, but the sophomores came out on top with best float. Seniors had a ticket booth and a Hollywood Hills background, while the juniors and the sophomores both had floats designed as movie theaters. The freshman had students recreating movie scenes from Forrest Gump, The Wizard of Oz, and E.T. The highlight of the parade was senior Kevin Garber stripped and painted gold in order to portray the Oscar Award.

Let's Go EAGLES!!!

This Book Is Dedicated To:

Nathyn Gibson

Jan Georgion: "Nathyn views everything from a different view than most people. His uniqueness brings creativ[ity] and dynamic[s] to everything he's involved in. Nathyn was one of the 3 students that I relied on to help with the junior high book. Without that dedication the book wouldn't have had much student input."

Bob Martino: "Nathyn, Best of Luck"

Joyce Gertz: "We as counselors are privileged to watch our students grow throughout their years in school. Growth is the word that comes to mind for Nathyn! Physically he has grown to super proportions and is head and shoulders above many of his peers as well as staff. Emotionally, he has matured into a fine young man, confident of his abilities and always willing to try new things. His personality has developed itself and Nathyn has found his niche in our school community and the world. I have been so pleased with his growth and have no doubts that this pattern will continue and Nathyn will grow into one of the finest men Lake Station has produced!"

Nathyn has been a member of the yearbook staff since his 7th grade year. He is the last staff member to be a part of the book for all 6 years. As the junior and senior books have been combined into one volume, there will be no other students who can claim this for the foreseeable future. Nathyn has been a valuable member who I have had the pleasure of watching mature over the past 4 years that I have known him. He has been an excellent photographer (just look at the action shots in the sports section) during his time on staff and an editor for the past year. Anyone who knows Nathyn can attest that he can easily bring a smile to most people's faces and he will be sorely missed. It can be said that Nathyn has truly been the soul of the yearbook for as long as he has been a part of it. We wish him luck with all that he does in the future. Nathyn, Thank You! - Eluides Pagán, yearbook sponsor

Jeanne French: "I enjoyed having Nathyn in my class because he always had such positive energy! He has an active and creative mind-something to be admired in our students. His smile and positive energy will always be remembered by me...He reminded me of a mad scientist with many things at his convenience."

Jeff Kincaid: "The Class of 2006 is fortunate to have their high school memories captured by someone with Nathan's level of photographic skills."

Christina Elizondo: "Nathyn is a great young man who has grown a lot since jr. high when I had him. Literally grown. HA-HA! I would give him more credit than he gives himself at times because he does have a big heart to go along with those big feet. He has a good sense of humor and always has a smile to his face. Good luck to you, Nathyn!!"

Bonnie Sykes: "All I can say is that Nathyn is one of a kind, they broke the mold when he was born."

Nadine Brown: "Nathyn was the heart and soul of the Fine Arts Department. I especially enjoyed accompanying him on the piano at solo festivals when he sang solos. He was a positive role model for our school!"

Leslie Kentaft: "'Success is relative. It is what we can make of the mess we have made of things. - T.S. Eliot' Do not be afraid to make a mess!"

Judy Price: "Never sacrifice creativity for mediocrity."

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million, from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1995 (Department of Health 1996). The number of people employed in the health service has increased by 1.2 million, from 2.2 million in 1980 to 3.4 million in 1995.

There is a growing emphasis on the need to improve the efficiency of the health service, and to ensure that the health service is able to meet the needs of the population. This has led to a number of initiatives, including the introduction of the Health Service Act 1990, the Health Service Act 1997, and the Health Service Act 2000. These initiatives have led to a number of changes in the way the health service is organised and managed, and to a number of changes in the way the health service is funded.

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased by 1.5 million, and the number of people aged 75 and over has increased by 1.2 million (Office of National Statistics 1999). The number of people aged 85 and over has increased by 0.5 million.

There is a growing awareness of the need to develop services to meet the needs of the ageing population. The Department of Health (1999) has set out a vision for the future of health care for older people. This vision is based on the principle that older people should be able to live in their own homes for as long as possible, and that health care should be provided in a way that is respectful of their dignity and autonomy.

The Department of Health (1999) has identified a number of key areas for action in order to achieve this vision. These include: improving the quality of care; ensuring that care is person-centred; and ensuring that care is accessible to all older people. This paper will discuss the challenges of providing care for older people in the community, and will explore some of the ways in which these challenges can be met.

The first challenge is to ensure that care is person-centred. This means that care should be tailored to the individual needs and preferences of each older person. It also means that older people should be involved in decisions about their care, and that their views should be taken into account. This can be achieved by using a range of assessment tools, and by involving older people in the development of care plans.

The second challenge is to improve the quality of care. This can be achieved by ensuring that care is delivered by staff who are trained and qualified to provide care for older people. It also means that care should be delivered in a safe and secure environment, and that there should be a focus on preventing falls and other accidents.

The third challenge is to ensure that care is accessible to all older people. This means that care should be available to older people who live in rural areas, and to older people who have physical or mental health problems. It also means that care should be available to older people who are unable to pay for it.

There are a number of ways in which these challenges can be met. One way is to develop a range of services that can be provided in the community. This includes home care, day care, and residential care. Another way is to develop a range of services that can be provided in the home. This includes telecare, and home care packages.

There are a number of factors that can influence the quality of care for older people. These include the training and qualifications of staff, the resources available, and the culture of the organisation. It is important to ensure that all of these factors are taken into account when developing services for older people.

A-D Storm surge

The 2005 hurricane season led to a record 27 named storms – 14 of them hurricanes – with several of them striking the U.S. Gulf and Atlantic coasts. Losses were estimated at $57.6 billion in the U.S. from hurricanes Katrina, Rita and Wilma, with those first two storms throwing more than 500,000 people out of work. Here's a breakdown of some of the damage:

- Katrina struck the tip of Florida before making a beeline for Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama on Aug. 29, destroying homes and businesses and taking more than 1,200 lives.
- New Orleans flooded after levees broke, leading to many rooftop rescues. More than 25,000 people, including the 23,000 who fled to the New Orleans Superdome, were sent to Houston's Astrodome for temporary shelter.
- The Mississippi coast took a direct hit, with high winds and 20-foot high waves leveling buildings and even moving casinos off their moorings.
- About 372,000 children from all three states started school in different cities or were being home-schooled; and approximately 18,000 college students from Louisiana spent the fall semester at other universities.
- Rita struck three weeks later in Louisiana and Texas. In one of the largest evacuations ever, 2.8 million people in southeast Texas, including Houston and Galveston, struggled to leave.
- Ariene hit Mississippi and Alabama, while Dennis struck Alabama and Florida. Ophelia stayed offshore of the Carolinas and Virginia and pummeled the area with heavy rains.

E. Hurricane tragedies widespread Wilma hit Mexico first, stranding tourists and damaging Mexico's resorts and economy. The tragedy was much greater in Guatemala following heavy rain from Hurricane Stan. More than 650 people died and more than 370 were missing after massive landslides there buried communities. Mexico, El Salvador, Nicaragua, Honduras and Costa Rica also reported deaths and damage from Stan.

Former Iraqi President Saddam Hussein went on trial for crimes against humanity.

A three-day transit strike in New York City stranded 7 million people before Christmas.

Angela Merkel became Germany's first woman chancellor.

Ellen Johnson Sirleaf became president of Liberia and Africa's first elected female head of state.

F. New day in Iraq

Coalition troops, mostly from the U.S., remained in Iraq to put down insurgents as the citizens continued their quest for democracy. Iraqis approved a new constitution in October and their Parliament in December, in an effort to set up their new government.

G. New terrorist attacks

London felt the wrath of Islamic extremists when four bombs went off July 7, killing 56 people and injuring 700. Alarming was the fact that the four suicide bombers were Britons. An attempted attack on July 21 was thwarted and the suspects were caught. Bali, Indonesia, was the site of a suicide bombing again following one in 2002, and three suicide bombers attacked three hotels in Amman, Jordan.

H. More of Mother Nature's wrath

A severe drought provided kindling for wildfires that consumed hundreds of thousands of acres and hundreds of homes and businesses in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arkansas and Colorado.

I. Palestinians elect change

Members of the Hamas organization, which calls for the destruction of Israel, won a majority of the seats in the Palestinian Parliament in January. The United States, the European Union and Israel have labeled Hamas a terrorist group, and were carefully watching the change of government.

J. Top court shuffle

Two vacancies were filled on the U.S. Supreme Court. John G. Roberts became the new chief justice, replacing William Rehnquist after his death. Samuel Alito took the seat of Sandra Day O'Connor, who retired.

K. Matriarchs pass on

Rosa Parks and Coretta Scott King, two leaders of the civil rights movement, died within a few months of each other. Parks was remembered for refusing to give her bus seat to a white man in Montgomery, Ala., in 1955. King was the wife of slain civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr., and she founded the King Center for Nonviolent Social Change in Atlanta to carry on his work.

L. Gas, oil prices heat up

High gasoline prices increased even more following hurricanes Katrina and Rita, which damaged oil refineries in the Gulf region. Prices were up already because of increased summer demand, higher crude prices and less refining capacity worldwide. Winter heating bills also surged as oil companies tried to repair damage and restore production.

Peter Jennings, anchor of ABC's World News Tonight for 22 years, died of lung cancer.

Western Union discontinued all telegram services after 150 years.

High school senior Michael Sesslohn was elected mayor of Hillsdale, Mich., beating the incumbent in a write-in candidate.

W. Mark Felt, a 91-year-old former FBI official, revealed he was Deep Throat of the Watergate scandal.

M. Mountain tragedy

A massive earthquake in the mountains of the Kashmir region of Pakistan in October killed more than 79,000 people, injured almost as many, and left about 3.3 million homeless as winter approached. Donations were lacking and relief supplies were slow in reaching the needy.

N. New Pope

Joseph Ratzinger, a 78-year-old German cardinal, was installed as Pope Benedict XVI. Benedict, who now leads the world's 1.1 billion Catholics, worked closely in the Vatican with his predecessor, Pope John Paul II.

O. Flu scare for the birds

Medical officials put the world on notice after a strain of avian flu was detected in some isolated human cases in China and Hong Kong. After more cases popped up elsewhere, the World Health Organization urged countries to prepare for a possible pandemic. There were concerns not only about migratory birds spreading the disease, but commercial fowl shipped for consumption.

P. Nuclear concerns

The U.S., Great Britain, France and Germany continued to pressure Iran to reduce its nuclear activities, and wanted the United Nations security council to impose sanctions.

Q. Should they listen in?

The National Security Agency came under fire for using electronic eavesdropping without warrants. The practice began after the 9/11 attacks to fight terrorism, and while the Bush administration, including Attorney General Alberto Gonzales, defended the practice, others argued it was illegal.

R. Mining tragedies

Sixteen West Virginia coal miners died in separate accidents in January, as did one miner in Kentucky. In the first accident at the Sago mine in West Virginia, a terrible miscommunication led the families to believe the men were alive after a 41-hour rescue.

I. Lewis "Scooter" Libby, an aide to Vice President Dick Cheney, was indicted in the investigation into who leaked a CIA officer's name.

S. Stroke affects election

Israeli Prime Minister Ariel Sharon suffered a massive stroke three months before March elections. Sharon had formed a new political party, Kadima, and was seeking support at the polls as he attempted to reach a peace agreement with Palestinians.

T. Tsunami recovery

Tourists began returning to areas in Asia where a tsunami swallowed people, towns and livelihoods on Dec. 26, 2004. Aid came from across the globe to the dozen countries that were hit. In the U.S., the relief effort was headed by an unlikely pair—former presidents George H.W. Bush and Bill Clinton.

U. Paris ablaze

France endured 18 nights of rioting that started in the poor suburbs of Paris. The arsons and other acts of destruction began after the accidental electrocution of two teens who thought police were chasing them, and turned into protests against the government for racial discrimination and unemployment.

V. A new money man

Ben Bernanke was appointed by President Bush to be the new chairman of the Federal Reserve board, a position that directs monetary policy for the U.S. and affects your wallet. Bernanke, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, replaced Alan Greenspan, who was the much-watched Federal Reserve chairman for 18 years.

W. ARRRG!

An old-fashioned battle of the sea was won with today's technology. Pirates attacked the Seabourn Spirit cruise ship off the coast of Somalia with grenade launchers and machine guns, but never got close enough to board. The cruise ship crew used a sonic device to send an ear-splitting noise toward the pirates, then shifted to high speed and changed course.

A-E Games of Turin

Turin, Italy stepped onto the world stage and played host to the Winter Olympics for two weeks in February. It was the largest Winter Olympics ever, with 2,500 athletes representing 82 countries competing in 84 events.

Long-track speedskating turned into one of the American team's best events. Shani Davis (A) won the Gold medal in the men's 1,000 meters and became the first African-American champion in Winter Olympics history. Former inline skating champion Chad Hedrick became an Olympic speedskating champion in the men's 5,000 meters just three years after taking the ice in the sport for the very first time. They were joined at the top of the podium by teammate Joey Cheek, who sprinted to Gold in the men's 500 meters.

Snowboarding was also ruled by the U.S. Shaun White (B), nicknamed "The Flying Tomato" for his bright red hair and acrobatic moves on the extreme sports circuit, won the Gold medal in the Men's Halfpipe. The 19-year old White showed nervousness when he fell during qualifying, but he recovered to win the Gold with a flourish in the finals. Other American winners included Hannah Teter in the Women's Halfpipe and Seth Wescott in the Men's Cross.

Ted Ligety (C) gave the U.S. ski team a boost by winning the Alpine Combined. It was the first Olympic appearance for the relatively unknown Ligety. He became only the fourth American male to win an Alpine Olympic Gold medal.

It was not all positive news for the U.S. Snowboarder Lindsey Jacobellis (D) poignantly summed up the highs and lows of the Olympic journey. Jacobellis was easily racing to victory in the finals of the Women's Cross when she threw too much style into an aerial and crashed. Jacobellis was unable to recover in time to keep her lead, and she was forced to settle for the Silver medal.

After 36 years on ABC, Monday Night Football left the network and moved to ESPN.

Jimmie Johnson won the 2006 Daytona 500.

Tiger Woods won his 10th major championship, taking the British Open for the second time.

F. Men of Steel

The Pittsburgh Steelers capped an improbable championship run by defeating the Seattle Seahawks in Super Bowl XL, 21-10. Pittsburgh was the last team to qualify for the AFC playoffs, and the Steelers made it to the title game by becoming the first team in NFL history to win three straight playoff games on the road. Wide receiver Hines Ward was chosen Super Bowl MVP after he grabbed five catches for 123 yards, including the game-clinching 43-yard touchdown in the fourth quarter.

G. White Sox champs again...finally

The Chicago White Sox eased the pain of long-suffering Windy City baseball fans by winning their first World Series title in 86 years, sweeping the Houston Astros in four games. Chicago was dominant in the playoffs with an 11-1 record.

H. Back on the ice

After losing an entire season to labor strife for the first time in league history, NHL owners and players settled their differences and returned to the rink. The new season arrived with a slew of rule changes as well, designed to speed up the game.

The Los Angeles Galaxy won their second MLS Cup title with a 1-0 overtime victory over the New England Revolution.

Legendary sports broadcaster Curt Gowdy died at the age of 86.

I. Danica in the driver's seat

Danica Patrick was not the first woman to ever race in the Indy Racing League, but she might have made the biggest splash, qualifying and finishing fourth at the Indy 500, the highest finish ever by a rookie driver. The 23-year-old Patrick went on to win IRL rookie of the year after several top 10 finishes.

J. A bumpy ride

Cyclist Lance Armstrong pedaled his way through another newsworthy year, winning the Tour de France for a record seventh consecutive time, then retiring from the sport, announcing his engagement and break-up to rock star Sheryl Crow and again being forced to respond to doping allegations from the French media.

K. One for the ages

USC's Heisman Trophy teammates, running back Reggie Bush and quarterback Matt Leinart, were not quite good enough to win a third straight college football national title, as the Trojans fell to Texas, 41-38, in the dramatic championship game at the Rose Bowl. Texas quarterback Vince Young stole the show, scoring the game-winning touchdown with 19 seconds left.

L. No more T.O.

Just one year after helping the Philadelphia Eagles reach the Super Bowl, wide receiver Terrell Owens got suspended from the team in mid-season, due to his detrimental conduct. The problems started when the outspoken and controversial Owens got upset that the team would not re-negotiate his contract.

M. Sensational Stewart

Behind a season that included five wins and 24 top 10 finishes, NASCAR driver Tony Stewart won his second Nextel Cup championship. Often referred to in the past as the bad boy of racing due to his short temper, Stewart joined Jeff Gordon as the only multiple Cup winner among active drivers.

N. Golden retirement

Considered by many the greatest golfer of his time, Jack Nicklaus decided to retire from competitive golf at the age of 65. Nicklaus won 18 major championships in his career, more than anybody in history. In his final round at the British Open, Nicklaus ended in style by sinking a 15-foot birdie on the final hole.

O. Two of a kind

The San Antonio Spurs and Detroit Pistons, respective winners of the previous two NBA championships, continued their domination. The two teams met in the 2005 NBA Finals, with the Spurs winning in seven games. Both rolled along during the 2006 season, compiling two of the best records in basketball by the All-Star Break.

P. Cleaning up the game

Baseball's steroid use scandal continued, with many high-profile players even testifying at Congressional hearings. Baltimore Orioles star Rafael Palmeiro denied use, then tested positive and was suspended during the season. After the 2005 season, Major League Baseball instituted a stricter steroid testing policy.

Los Angeles Lakers guard Kobe Bryant scored 81 points in one game, the second highest individual total in NBA history.

USC running back Reggie Bush won the Heisman Trophy in a landslide vote.

Swiss tennis star Roger Federer stayed number one in the world by winning Wimbledon, the U.S. Open and the Australian Open.

A. Shuttle back in orbit

Two years after the Columbia tragedy grounded NASA's manned space flight program, space shuttle Discovery returned NASA to outer space with a successful two-week mission. However, anxious moments came after foam insulation knocked loose on take-off caused a two-day delay in Discovery's return to Earth.

B. Science or religion?

Communities and school districts ferociously debated the merits of Intelligent Design, a concept that asserts certain aspects of the living world seemed to be caused by an intelligent source, rather than a random process such as natural selection. Opponents claimed it was religion masquerading as science, while proponents insisted it should be a respected point of view.

C. Space tourist

American scientist Gregory Olsen paid $20 million for a 10-day trip to the International Space Station. Olsen, the co-founder and chairman of his own fiber-optics company, made the trip aboard a Russian rocket and became only the third civilian to become a "space tourist."

D. 360 around the world

Microsoft released its newest gaming system, Xbox 360, just in time for the holidays and prompted shoppers to camp out in lines to gobble them up. The consoles were also launched with a new expanded service from Microsoft that allowed gamers worldwide to play one another.

E. Generation MySpace

Teens continued becoming more immersed in the internet. MySpace, an online social community geared toward young adults and musicians, became one of the fastest-growing websites on the internet. Just two years old, MySpace's membership approached 50 million users and began getting more hits than Google and AOL. Elsewhere, popular online encyclopedias like Wikipedia started to be viewed as viable reference tools, despite debates regarding its accuracy.

Ocean researchers in Japan captured photos of a giant, 60-foot squid, thought to be one of the largest creatures in the sea.

Stem cell scientist Woo Suk Hwang was accused of fabricating lab results.

Clark, Texas, a suburb of Fort Worth, officially changed its name to Dish, Texas, in order to win 10 years of free satellite TV service from DISH Network.

F. Lost World

Conservation groups on an expedition into the remote tropical jungles of Indonesia discovered dozens of new animal and plant species. The scientists reportedly found up to 20 new types of frogs and a species of tree kangaroo (pictured) that was previously thought to be extinct.

G. Park for free

Salt Lake City joined a growing list of American cities that began offering free metered downtown parking for more environmentally friendly vehicles. To qualify, cars needed to get at least 50 miles to the gallon or be a hybrid powered by an alternative fuel. Other cities that offered similar programs included Austin, Texas and New Haven, Conn.

H. Landmark surgery

Doctors in Miami successfully removed a 16-pound tumor from the face of Marlie Casseus, a 14-year-old Haitian girl suffering from a rare genetic disorder. Casseus was brought to the United States for the procedure after aid workers in Haiti discovered her case. Donations from all over the world helped Casseus' family pay the medical bills.

I. Monkey business

A group of American scientists announced that they successfully decoded the DNA of the chimpanzee, considered the closest relative to humans in nature. By comparing the chimp DNA to human DNA, the doctors hoped to discover the roots of various diseases.

A. By George, a great year

Already one of America's most popular movie stars, George Clooney added critical acclaim to his resume by earning two Oscar nominations. Clooney received a Best Supporting Actor nod for his role as a CIA spy in the thriller Syriana, and a Best Director nomination for the Edward R. Murrow biopic Good Night, and Good Luck, which also was nominated for Best Picture.

B. A slice of real life

The films honored with Best Picture Oscar nominations relied heavily on real events. Munich told the story of fallout from the terrorist attacks at the 1972 Olympics, Good Night, and Good Luck focused on 1950s TV journalist Edward R. Murrow, and Capote examined the life of famed writer Truman Capote. Other Best Picture nominees included Brokeback Mountain and Crash.

C. King of the mountain

An updated version of the classic tale of King Kong made it into theaters around New Year's. The big-budget, special effects blockbuster once again told the story of the giant ape discovered on a mysterious tropical island, who is brought to Depression-era New York as a sideshow act.

D. May the force be with you... always

The long-awaited final movie in the Star Wars saga, Revenge of the Sith, dominated the box office and became one of the highest grossing films of all-time, earning nearly $400 million. Despite the critical and financial success of Sith, series creator George Lucas vowed the story was over and no more Star Wars movies would be made.

E. Not Lost on the audience

Lost, ABC's adventure series about a group of people stranded on a mysterious island after a plane crash, won Best Drama Series at the Emmy Awards and continued to attract nearly 20 million viewers each week.

Joaquin Phoenix and Reese Witherspoon both got Oscar nominations for playing Johnny and June Carter Cash in Walk the Line.

Popular children's tale, Chronicles of Narnia: The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe, was made into a hit movie.

F. Back in the spotlight

After her career seemed derailed due to a series of highly publicized emotional troubles, R&B singer Mariah Carey staged a huge comeback when her new album, The Emancipation of Mimi, ended up as the highest seller of the year. The record earned Carey three Grammy awards.

G. Can't get enough CSI

TV viewers continued to be infatuated with CBS' batch of crime dramas. CSI was still the most watched show on network TV. CSI: Miami and CSI: New York also drew huge ratings.

H. 50 Cent worth millions

Rapper 50 Cent put out another hit album, with The Massacre selling more than 5 million copies. He also starred in the hit movie Get Rich or Die Tryin', which was loosely based on his life story.

I. Potter mania rampant again

Release of the sixth book in the popular Harry Potter series created quite a stir. Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince sold more than 10 million copies, and author J.K. Rowling stunned many readers by killing off one of the story's main characters. The latest Harry Potter movie (based on the fourth book), Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire, ruled the box office in the fall.

J

K

J. Familiar faces

Ratings showed that several familiar TV shows continued to be big hits with the young teen audience. Gilmore Girls, The OC, Smallville and Veronica Mars were among those that stayed popular.

K. Penguins everywhere

Documentary film March of the Penguins drew in nearly $80 million at the box office, a previously unheard of figure for its genre. Critical praise and positive word of mouth helped the movie, which fascinated millions with its story about the mating rituals of penguins at the South Pole.

Wedding Crashers was the comedy hit of the year, raking in more than $200 million.

Gwen Stefani released her first solo album, which included number one hit song "Hollaback Girl."

L. Whole new idols

Carrie Underwood won the fourth season of musical reality TV show American Idol. By the spring, 24 new hopefuls were picked as finalists for the fifth season. Meanwhile, past winners Kelly Clarkson and Fantasia became the first idol alums to earn Grammy nominations.

M. Womack wins

Straying away from the trend of pop-infused country music, Lee Ann Womack was rewarded with three wins at the CMA Awards. Womack's traditional country record, There's More Where That Came From, won Album of the Year and her ballad "I May Hate Myself in the Morning" won Song of the Year.

N. The first lady

So when will the U.S. have a female president? In the world of fictional TV, it happened this year. ABC's Commander In Chief cast Geena Davis in the role of the president, and the drama series became the highest-rated new show on the air.

O. Gone, but not forgotten

Famed American comedian Richard Pryor died after a long battle with multiple sclerosis. Other noteworthy entertainers to pass away included R&B singer Luther Vandross, actresses Anne Bancroft and Shelley Winters, and actor Pat Morita, the beloved Mr. Miyagi from The Karate Kid movies.

P. 8 is enough

On the 20th anniversary of his famous charity concert Live Aid, music producer Bob Geldof reprised the event by staging Live 8, a series of charity concerts that took place in eight countries during the first week of July. Estimates indicated that more than one million people attended and more than 1,000 musicians performed at Live 8.

Green Day won five honors at the MTV Music Video Awards.

Shock jock Howard Stern jumped to satellite radio, signing a $500 million deal with Sirius.

Q. Good works rewarded

U2 lead singer Bono received another prestigious honor, but this one had nothing to do with his music. Bono, along with Microsoft founder Bill Gates and his wife, Melinda, were chosen Persons of the Year by Time magazine for their global charitable efforts to fight poverty and disease.

R. Kanye keeps up

Controversial rapper Kanye West made headlines for his music, with his latest album Late Registration earning eight Grammy nominations, and for his mouth after he criticized President George W. Bush's handling of Hurricane Katrina.

S. A new job with Disney

Steve Jobs, co-founder and CEO of Apple Computers, strengthened his status as a pop culture icon after his Pixar Animation Studios, the creator of popular computer animated movies like The Incredibles and Toy Story, agreed to a merger with longtime partner Walt Disney Pictures. In the process, Jobs became the largest shareholder in Disney.

T. A million questions

Author James Frey garnered critical acclaim for his best-selling self-help memoir A Million Little Pieces, which told the story of how he overcame a life of crime and drug addiction. However after much public scrutiny, Frey admitted that large portions of the book were exaggerated and embellished.

U. Back on the air

A grassroots fan movement, driven largely by DVD sales, prompted Fox to bring back animated comedy series Family Guy. The show, centered on the wild antics of an off-the-wall Rhode Island family, a diabolical one-year old baby and their talking dog, had been cancelled by Fox in 2002.

Popular Newlyweds Jessica Simpson and Nick Lachey called it quits.

Oprah Winfrey celebrated the 20th anniversary of her popular daytime talk show.

Five movies starring 11-year old actress Dakota Fanning were released, including War of the Worlds.

A. I want my iPod TV

When Apple Computers developed the latest generation of its popular iPod digital music player, users were thrilled to find they could now download video files. In the first three weeks of the new service, iPod users bought more than one million video podcasts.

B. Movies at home

Box office numbers were down and movie theaters sold fewer tickets, but many industry analysts said the decline was due to the growing number of people with high-tech home theaters simply choosing to wait a few months for films to go to DVD.

C. A chip in poker craze

While some analysts think poker peaked in popularity, the card game remained a pastime, with some teens holding supervised games at home and watching tournaments on television. Some adults spoke out against teens playing poker, since it is gambling.

D. Digital revolution

Downloadable digital music continued to drastically alter the recording industry. Studies showed that the sales of CDs and albums were down eight percent over the previous year, while sales of digital singles increased 150 percent.

E. Play for work

It's not just fun and games. More colleges began offering courses and degrees related to video games as the industry becomes serious business. The colleges are feeding a demand for skilled developers and technicians.

F. Blog this

A study showed that half of all teens and 57 percent of teens who use the internet have created a blog or website or posted something online. The study by Pew Internet and American Life Project was conducted to look at falling newspaper readership.

G. Shrug it off

For dressing up this year, shrugs and gauchos were the rage for girls of all ages, while other students who wanted to dress down did not even bother with regular clothes – they just wore their PJs to school.

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million, from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1995 (Department of Health 1996).

There is a growing emphasis on the need to improve the efficiency of the public sector, and to ensure that the public sector is able to deliver the services that are required by the public. This has led to a number of initiatives, including the introduction of competition, the restructuring of public sector organisations, and the introduction of performance measures.

One of the main reasons for the need to improve the efficiency of the public sector is the increasing pressure on public sector budgets. This is due to a number of factors, including the increasing cost of health care, the increasing cost of education, and the increasing cost of social services. In addition, there is a growing emphasis on the need to reduce the public sector deficit, which has led to a number of initiatives, including the introduction of competition, the restructuring of public sector organisations, and the introduction of performance measures.

The Mental Health Act 1983 is the primary legislation governing the care of people with mental health problems in the United Kingdom. The Act sets out the principles and objectives of mental health care. The Act also sets out the powers and responsibilities of the various agencies involved in the care of people with mental health problems.

The Mental Health Act 1983 has been amended a number of times since it was first passed. The most recent amendments were made in 2003. The amendments were made in response to a number of concerns raised by the public and the media about the care of people with mental health problems.

The amendments to the Mental Health Act 1983 have a number of key features. These include: a new definition of mental disorder; a new system of consent; a new system of appeals; and a new system of review.

The amendments to the Mental Health Act 1983 are intended to improve the care of people with mental health problems. The amendments are also intended to ensure that the care of people with mental health problems is in line with the principles and objectives of the Act.
